PRETTY BOYS

Even Hollywood roughnecks aren't above wanting glowy skin and touchable hair. Here are the products these leading men rely on to keep themselves looking beautiful:

Already a regular at Ole Henriksen's L.A. salon (he likes the facials), Mark Wahlberg recently picked up several products from the skincare line.

OLE HENRIKSEN Walnut Complexion Scrub, $24; olehenriksen.com.

"We tear through La Mer on set," says Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End makeup artist Ve Neill about Johnny Depp's fave. "Johnny doesn't go anywhere without it."

LA MER The Radiant Infusion, $90; neimanmarcus.com.

While shooting The Curious Case of Benjamin Button, Brad Pitt loved Kenra's Grooming Pomade. "It prevents fly-aways so his hair looks piece-y but smooth," says the film's stylist Colleen Balaghan.

KENRA Grooming Pomade, $15; 800-428-8073.

WHY A-listers like Drew Barrymore and Sandra Bullock all carried Celestina's clutches—which feature woven designs and mother-of-pearl details—on the red carpet this season. HER INSPIRATION The "beautiful shells and corals, trees and stones" in her native Philippines, where the bags are handmade. UP NEXT A just-out jewelry collection and eyewear launching in the fall. Celestina handbags, $530-$2,500; 212-826-8900.
